UITableViewController resizes table view cells on its own In Interface Builder i have created a simple Table View Controller and everything works fine until i tap the button "Show device". The view height does not match the screen height which is fine because the View Controller automatically scales. But its weird because as soon as i tap the button "Show device" the height of my cells do not match the screen height anymore but stay the same (tons of buttons in one cell). What am i doing wrong? A: The issue is that the iPhone is resizing your tableview and then filling in the extra empty space with blank rows, leading to what you're seeing. If you want to disable this behavior in Xcode, tap the Resizing Views button on your tab bar and uncheck "Resize View Controller Size to Fit Content". DESCRIPTION This is the basic module that uses the nl802154 module and the mqtt-client configuration module to create a MQTT client. In order to be able to subscribe to all topics you will have to declare a datalink between your wireless bridge and the mqtt-bridge via the mqtt-datalink module. CONFIGURATION CONFIGURATION VARIABLES TO DESCRIPTION Example This is a dummy configuration file for test purposes. This is there to help in understanding how to properly create your own configuration file ALLOW_USER_LOGIN is set to true in order to have the MQTT client to be configured with a username and a passwordThe present invention is directed to the field of semiconductor fabrication. More specifically, embodiments of the present invention provide a method for fabricating a phase change material memory element with improved isolation for increased integration density. The use of phase change materials for memory storage is known. In such materials, a change in electrical resistance of the material is achieved by applying 3e33713323
