STEP 7 safety advanced and WinCC. failed to receive a copy of the Board's decision and order as to his appeal from the Company. 10 The Company moves to set aside the Board's order and impose further sanctions for the filing of a frivolous appeal. This court has granted the Company's motion to withdraw as counsel and to substitute counsel. It is this newly-appointed counsel's motion, made more than four years after the filing of the Company's brief, that raises the issue of sanctions. 11 Given that the original brief raises a reasonable question as to the propriety of the Board's use of an objective standard in determining whether or not the Company's conduct in disciplining Shedd was "egregious," the issue was not frivolous. The appeal was not frivolous as was the instant motion for sanctions. The Board, however, has failed to meet its burden of proving by clear and convincing evidence that the appeal is frivolous. 12 The Board has offered no explanation of the lack of any mailing whatsoever to Shedd's attorneys of the Board's decision and order. The failure of the Board to provide a copy of the decision and order to Shedd's attorneys is a violation of this court's order dated November 4, 1987, requiring the Board to provide Shedd's counsel with a copy of
