Please make sure to review the AutoCAD 2020 license agreement and the online license upgrade service prior to downloading files. Upgrade to AutoCAD with Remote Access If you have an existing AutoCAD desktop installation, you can upgrade to the latest release of AutoCAD with Remote Access via a Web browser. This service will enable you to access your AutoCAD data from a remote computer or mobile device. This upgrade option can be downloaded at the Autodesk website. Wireless Data Transfer You can now wirelessly send your AutoCAD files to other Autodesk products and non-Autodesk applications. This has been made possible by the addition of a new feature called a Cloud Link. The Cloud Link allows you to transfer DWG files from your Desktop to the cloud, where they can then be loaded into AutoCAD mobile and web apps. You can also send DWG files from a Mobile App to a web service, which can then open them directly within the Mobile App, while avoiding using the cloud. For example, if you want to make small changes to a DWG file while still working in AutoCAD mobile, the file can be sent directly to a web-based application like Box or Dropbox
