But the problem is that if I make a second "Okay!" and it is right next to "Okay!" it won't rotate "Okay!" from its current location, even though I tell it to do so by adding a rotation of M_PI/6 to that rotation. Why won't "Okay!" rotate? Thanks in advance, all help is greatly appreciated. A: The rotation is with respect to the anchor point. That means that if you put the other Okay! right next to the first Okay! it will cause a problem in its own right. In short: Don't use anchorPoint. Instead use the node's position in SpriteKit. A: Try setting.rotation = CGFloat(M_PI_6

The topic came up after one of our listeners sent in a story about how his buddy down the street was basically put out because a neighborhood "ghetto" established by black residents tried to kick him and his family out of the neighborhood. The purpose of the show is to talk about what's happening in real life. There are white people all over the United States who have been forced out of neighborhoods they built because the housing market is racist 3e33713323
