It allows you to create a cute fun animated sprite with ease. Be it a sports hero, a panda, a fox or a rocket it will use the technique of combining several parts of a sprite and creating an endless series of animation with ease. It also allows for directly editing the combined sprite. You can create a series of animation or individual action sequences by adding to the desired area one or more parts of the sprite. Add rotation points to help create a feeling of movement in the sprite and add sound effects to your sequence by selecting them from the sound library. Adding or removing actions will automatically result in an updated list of actions. You can also assign particular actions to the left, right, top, and bottom areas of the sprite. You can also select a standard action for every part of the sprite. If you select multiple parts, the action is applied to each of them. You can easily change the action of the selected sprites by dragging the left or right areas of the animation from the sprite. The action field is fully editable, and allows you to apply a rotation to the
