Works in Offline and online mode I am writing a VBA application that enables the user to add a file as a Note to a personal record in a personal calendar. This works fine so long as the application is closed and the user is not online. The file gets added to the calendar however in the online version of the application, any changes the user makes to the file after it has been added to the note are not available after the application is opened again. How do I keep the notes that are created offline available to the user in the online version of the application? Using CalDav on a Windows Server 2016 A: Since you didn't provide the code in your question, I'm going to make a few assumptions that I think your code might look a little like. I think you'll probably need to update the Save method in the code below. Sub TestSaveNote() Dim strCallID As String Set objCalendar = GetObject("c:\temp.caldav\home.home.acme.com") 'Substitute values for your own. strCallID = "home.acme.com" Set objRecord = objCalendar.CreateItem(olNote) With objRecord 'Add your notes here, see .Attachments.Add mNoteFilePath .Update End With objCalendar.Save strCallID End Sub Number Theory for Computer Scientists - samcday ===== munificent This is a nice tutorial of both _

ART Educational Manuale Caiete Auxiliare Clasa I II III IV BacalaureatĂ .In recent years, techniques for carrying out a nitric acid oxidation reaction of a highly reactive isocyanate or isocyanate derivative are known. For example, Patent Literature 1 describes a method for obtaining 5-aminopentanol by subjecting an isocyanate derivative and an organic acid amide in the presence of an acid to a nitric acid oxidation reaction, and thereafter subjecting a reaction product obtained therefrom to a ring cleavage reaction. Patent Literature 2 also describes a method for obtaining a (poly)alkyl amine by subjecting an isocyanate derivative and an organic acid amide to a nitric acid oxidation reaction. In these methods, it is important that an isocyanate derivative in an equivalent of hydroxyl groups thereof is allowed to be present during the reaction as a nitric acid oxidation reaction catalyst. However, in the methods described in Patent Literatures 1 and 2, an acyloxy nitrite compound is formed as a by-product and some of the acyloxy nitrite compound remains even after the reaction is terminated and is removed. Consequently, there is a problem in that a yield of a target compound may be decreased. Accordingly, there is a demand for a process for producing a (poly)alkyl amine with high yield at a relatively low cost from an organic acid amide and an isocyanate derivative by nitric acid oxidation of the organic acid amide and the isocyanate derivative.Server Arena Server Arena is a multiplayer online game for both Windows and Linux.
